Hatching Chicks

Spring is here and it is that time again! Kindergarten recently began their embryology unit placing 42 eggs into their two incubators in hopes of the arrival of chicks around March 23rd. These little scientists will observe and track the progress of the eggs from now until they hatch. They will record their observations in their science journals. The entire school will wait with great anticipation for hatch day as ALL the students love the fluffy babies.

What's Happening at St. Agnes School.....

First Grade Class By Kyla Odermann

I cannot believe we are already three-fourths of the way through the school year! It has truly flown by. We have had a very busy couple of months, celebrating the 100th Day of School, Valentine's Day, the Penny Carnival, Read Across America Week, St. Patrick's Day, and I'm sure there are a few other special days and events that I'm missing. This last quarter doesn't seem like it's going to slow down either!

In phonics, we have been focusing on r-controlled vowels and how the consonant "r" impacts a vowel when it is right next door. This has taken a couple of weeks to cover, but the students are doing a wonderful job understanding the concept. It especially shows in their spelling test results!

Math has been more challenging recently as we began adding double-digit numbers. Even though this is a difficult concept, the students have been doing a great job using the different strategies we've learned to solve these problems.

Science has been a fun unit as we learn about the needs of living things. First graders really enjoy the idea of photosynthesis—and they especially love saying the word! We are hoping to take a field trip in the next few weeks that aligns with this unit.

As the year begins to wind down, I look back and see how much of a blessing this school and class have been to me. I'm excited to see what the fourth quarter brings!

Library Room News By Lana Payne

March came in like a lamb as compared to the damagingly high winds we've had the last several days! Will it go out like a lion? The month began with the week of Read Across America, birthdays of Dr. Suess (March 2) and Dog Man author Dav Pilkey (March 4).

The library has many areas of focus this month. One of those being National Women's History Month, declared by Congress in 1987 in perpetuity. During March the library will feature important women in our history: women of faith and courage, women of the arts, of humanities, of science, of sports, defenders of our country both in arms and service, educators, caretakers, and MOTHERS! We're all looking forward to learning about the women that some third graders have picked for their Wax Museum project.

March also marks the annual St. Agnes Used Book Sale. It took place in the Learning Center on March 16-19. Students had the opportunity to shop the sale on their library days. All books were 10 cents each, what a bargain! The Book Sale was also open after school and during Parent/Teacher Conferences. We hope you had a chance to come and browse the sale and took home some treasures. We appreciate your generous donations of used books for the sale! Please continue to send your used book donations throughout the year.

Thank you for supporting and encouraging your child's love of reading!

Music Room News By Cori Taedter

We have certainly been the busiest of bees this quarter, and the St. Agnes music room is buzzing with excitement! We have begun rehearsing and making preparations for our spring music program, "Race Day," which will be presented on Thursday, April 16th, at 6:30 p.m. in the school gym. Pictured are our 5th Grade Ukulele Band members collaborating to assure that fingers are all in the correct places for our newly learned E-flat chord which, I will assure you, is not an easy task!

"Race Day" is a delightfully fun musical based on Hebrews 12:1-2: "Therefore, since we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us also lay aside every weight, and sin which clings so closely, and let us run with endurance the race that is set before us, looking to Jesus, the founder and perfecter of our faith." Our coach quickly explains that instead of physically running a race, the day is about an even bigger race... the race of life! And the Bible says training to live a life determined to follow Jesus is like running a race where the prize is eternal and heavenly! "Race Day" has helped to plant biblical truths in our hearts and minds - studying and learning this music has certainly brought pure joy into our music room.

So come on, join us! Lace up those running shoes, do some stretches, and get ready to run the race of a lifetime with us on "Race Day!"
